

Your Highlands Ability Profile

Tonal Memory

This worksample measures the ability to remember sequences of tones and influences your musical ability and auditory learning. The stronger your Tonal Memory, the more naturally able you are to produce music by memory, reproduce the accent of foreign language, and learn through listening. Tonal Memory supports studies and work roles such as:

- Speaking, interpreting or translating language dialects
- Remember what people have said (e.g., consulting, teaching, diplomacy, customer service)
- Producing music by memory
- Remembering dialogue or lines (e.g., actors, broadcasters)
- Retaining information by listening (e.g., listening to lectures, podcasts)
